Baillie Gifford operates a single swinging price for the Fund and, therefore, may apply a dilution adjustment to the price to protect long-term investors from the costs associated with buying and selling underlying investments that result from other investors joining or leaving the Fund. This adjustment will affect relative performance, either positively or negatively.

Market Background

Global markets have been clouded by the Trump administration's tariff headlines during the first quarter of the year. Asia ex Japan markets have outperformed the US market under this backdrop, with China being the best performing market during the quarter.

In Beijing, the Year of the Snake began with a resolve to rekindle growth. At the March National People's Congress (NPC), China's government reaffirmed a ~5% GDP growth target for 2025 and unveiled its most expansionary fiscal plans in decades, as authorities prepared to spend big on shoring up demand. While tariff uncertainties remain, bargain valuations (Chinese stocks entered the year at multi-year low price-to-earnings multiples) and domestic policy backstops limit the downside. A modest overweight feels appropriate.

India entered 2025 determined to shake off a late-2024 slump, as growth in the fiscal year 2024 registered a four-year low by government estimate. In February, the Reserve Bank of India delivered its first interest rate cut in nearly five years. The government also cut personal income taxes for lower-income brackets and tried to continue to invest in infrastructure and generate jobs. The market mood was gloomy, turning India from Asia's top-performing market to one of its weakest. However, rich valuations were still a culprit despite the correction. While India remains one of the best long-term stories in our investment universe, we await more reasonable valuations before closing the underweight position in the Fund.

Performance

The Asia ex-Japan market return was muted over the quarter and the Fund underperformed the index marginally.

We tend to focus on longer time periods, in keeping with the fund objective. In the shorter term though, we would highlight that not owning Alibaba and Xiaomi in China has detracted performance both last and this quarter.

The reappearance of Jack Ma, Alibaba's legendary founder, in President Xi's high-profile meeting with entrepreneurs, was seen as a confidence booster. Apple announced its plan to cooperate with Alibaba on AI functions for its iPhones in China. The company also announced a significant R&D plan on AI and cloud for the next three years. We took a more measured approach here and remained sceptical about the profitability of China's cloud businesses. We took comfort from our large exposures via other platform businesses that we think are in a good position to benefit from cheaper AI adoption in their consumer-facing businesses.

Xiaomi is a consumer electronics company whose main revenue comes from smartphones. Share prices have surged in recent quarters on the back of strong financial results and the promise of a new growth trajectory for Xiaomi in smart electric vehicles.

Accton, a networking solutions provider based in Taiwan, was a performance contributor last quarter but detracted this quarter. The Chinese startup DeepSeek sparked a wave of discussions with its open-source, cost-effective AI models. This caused challenges for the global semiconductor industry, primarily around whether the handful of leading 'hyperscale' with vast capex and computational advantage can keep their moats in the AI race. Accton is a key supplier to Amazon's AI accelerators.

Zijin Mining, a Chinese copper and gold miner, has detracted last quarter but is a contributor this quarter. With President Trump threatening tariffs on copper, the metal's price has surged by 30% since the beginning of the year. This has likely benefited Zijin's share prices for the short term. We continue to be impressed by the company's strong financial results in 2024, with net profit rising by 52% year-over-year to a record high.

Luckin Coffee, a Chinese coffee company and coffeehouse chain, also contributed to this quarter's performance. The company reported a strong 36%/184% increase in revenue/net profit in the fourth quarter of 2024. While the investment case wasn't built on China's overall consumer market recovery (but rather on Luckin's edge in a massive market), policy announcements in March focusing on stimulating domestic consumption might have likely lifted the mood towards consumer stocks.

SEA Ltd, Southeast Asian eCommerce and gaming company, also added to performance this quarter. The company has delivered strong operational growth in recent quarters. Revenue grew by 29% in 2024, and adjusted EBITDA reached $2billion, up from $1.2billion in 2023. All three segments of its business, gaming, eCommerce, and digital financial services, saw decent progress.

Notable Transactions

New Purchases: it was an active quarter in terms of trading as we implemented a number of new ideas that the team has researched on. This includes a purchase of Kanzhun, China's leading recruitment platform; Haidilao, a restaurant chain specialising in Chinese hot pot cuisine; and Grab, a leading ride-hailing and delivery platform in Southeast Asia.

Complete Sale: we have sold Baidu, a company that operates China's leading search engine, and Li Ning, a sportswear brand. Baidu has been gradually losing market share to disruptive life-style sharing apps like Xiaohongshu, and its autonomous driving effort appeared to have lost steam. Li Ning's operational growth has been disappointing since the pandemic. While we continue to believe in its brand value, we believe there are other more promising consumer names we could own at the current market juncture.

We also completed the sale for Tata Motors, an Indian automaker that owns the Range Rover brand. This has been a very profitable investment for the Fund and we no longer think our views differentiate from the market.

Market Outlook

The shadow of 'Liberation Day' on the 2 April when President Trump will announce his programme of reciprocal tariffs will continue to cloud global markets. These are obviously uncertain times and it looks like the benefits of diversification could never be greater and the heterogenous Asian market universe can provide this.

We continue to be happy with the diverse range of growth drivers that are represented by the holdings in the Fund. We are finding a plethora of exciting opportunities and there remains strong competition for capital. The Fund encompasses a wide array of countries, sectors and structural growth themes that should do well in the years ahead regardless of the short-term news flow. One of the qualities we look for when evaluating a company is its adaptability and its resilience. Whatever comes to pass on 'Liberation Day' and beyond, the investment cases for the companies in the Fund will not change overnight.

Transactions from 01 January 2025 to 31 March 2025.

New Purchases

Stock Name	Transaction Rationale
Bajaj Finserv	We have taken a new holding in Bajaj Finserv. Its profits are mainly derived from its ownership of Bajaj Finance, though it also has general and life insurance, in partnership with Allianz. Bajaj Finance is India's largest non-bank finance company (NBFC) and is attractive due to its excellent track record of prudent and profitable lending. It pairs the advantages of being on-the-ground for consumer lending in a way that banks and smaller NBFCs cannot manage, but with the scale and diversification of a large institution. The insurance companies appear to be largely overlooked by the market, and Bajaj Finserv trades on a discount to its ownership of its underlying assets. While we have admired the business for many years, it has de-rated over the past few years despite good operational performance. In short, we think the market is offering us a good opportunity to invest in a business with proven growth advantages at an attractive price within the context of Indian market.
Eicher Motors Limited	We have purchased a holding in the manufacturer of Royal Enfield motorcycles, Eicher Motors. These vehicles remain a cultural phenomenon in India, and are one of India's few domestic-owned aspirational brands. While forecasting growth rates is inherently difficult, we believe there is a long-term appeal for these vehicles for the emerging middle class in India and the company has the capacity to surprise positively. It has recently shrugged off new competition from foreign brands such as Harley Davidson, which gave us increased confidence in its brand strength.
Fabrinet	Fabrinet is a Thai Electronic Manufacturing Services company, specialising in optical products such as lasers and related transceivers. This focus - on high complexity, low volume parts - is a strategy that translates into loyal customer relationships, lower levels of competition and better financial returns. Growth has historically compounded at a double-digit rate, and the company has simultaneously managed to keep an unlevered balance sheet. With a healthy tailwind from growing applications for optical data transfer in end markets as diverse as medical and automotive, we expect a mid-teens top line growth rate going forward, which would be an outcome seemingly overlooked by the market.
FPT	We have broadened the Vietnamese exposure in your portfolio through the addition of FPT Group, the leading IT outsourcer in Vietnam.
Goneo Group	Gongniu Group (Goneo) manufactures electrical hardware, particularly power strips and home electrical fixtures, with a growing presence in lighting, EV chargers, and power tools. The company has a 70% market share in its core power strip market under the highly-trusted "Bull" brand. The company demonstrates exceptional operational quality, with 20% return on assets and 30% return on equity. These superior economics stem from the company's market position, strong brand recognition, and significant bargaining power with both suppliers and distributors. While the core electrical business is mature, Goneo is rapidly expanding into EV charging (where it already holds 30% of the consumer market), and international markets (particularly Southeast Asia at present). Their entry into power tools also leverages their existing brand strength and distribution network of 750,000 hardware stores. The founders maintain significant ownership post-IPO, and have demonstrated an attractive combination of long-term reinvestment in the business and shareholder-friendly capital allocation through consistent dividends, which is relatively unusual compared to their A-share peers.
Grab	Grab is Southeast Asia's largest ride-hailing and food delivery platform. The penetration of its services is low in most regions, and there is scope for them to offer more through its on-demand delivery platform. We have historically been cautious about the competitive environment and the relatively demanding valuation, but the past few years have shown both a more benign competitive environment and operational growth but a broadly flat market capitalisation. With the probability increasing that Grab becomes the dominant on-demand consumer services company in the region, we decided now was an opportune time to invest in this regional growth leader.

Haidilao International	Haidilao is one of the leading Chinese restaurant chains, specialising in Hot Pot cuisine. This business has the potential for strong future growth, driven by both new store openings and higher average customer spending. Its brand has been proven over a number of years and it has a reputation for delivering a superior customer experience that makes it a 'go to' eating destination for hot pot. These factors combine with a very low valuation given the poor sentiment towards the Chinese market. In short, we believe that the 'market' is giving us an opportunity to invest in a high quality growing franchise at a very attractive price.
InterGlobe Aviation Limited	Indigo is India's leading airline, and has a significant growth opportunity ahead of it as rates of domestic and international air travel increase in the country. Its competitive position has strengthened materially over the pandemic, with smaller private peers pulling back and Air India privatised by the Tata Group. We expect more rational competition going forward. Furthermore, ownership and management of the company have stabilised, and more recent financial results have emphasised the surprising strength of unit economics here. While we are cognisant of the risks in this industry, we assess Indigo's shares are attractive compared to other domestic companies exposed to growth in the Indian middle class.
Kanzhun Limited	Kanzhun operates China's leading recruitment platform, Boss Zhipin. Despite a challenging environment over the past three years for private sector hiring, the company has demonstrated excellent revenue growth, improving operating margins, and proven the value of its two-sided network business model. Having evaluated the growth potential and valuation of Kanzhun relative to its domestic peers and global comparators like Recruit Holdings in Japan, this appears to be a compelling investment from a long-term secular growth perspective. Furthermore, it should be a beneficiary both in terms of revenue growth and re-rating potential should private sector hiring demand improve as well as broader global investor enthusiasm for businesses like this that are tied to the health of the broad Chinese economy.

Complete Sales

Stock Name	Transaction Rationale
Baidu.com	We have sold your holding in Baidu as the company continues to disappoint in both its core search and newer areas of AI and autonomous driving. While ambitious and long-term investors, Baidu's failure to maintain leading positions in any of these aspects suggests a cultural or operating weakness that, while difficult to predict with certainty, has led to declining confidence in its success in any of these fields. As such, within this sector, we prefer investment in some of the other technology companies with more proven competitive advantages and consistently higher-performing management teams.
Jio Financial Services Limited	At the time your fund first took a holding in Jio Financial Services, the skew of investment outcomes appeared unusually favourable: downside that was limited by the value of their underlying stake in Reliance Industries, alongside the small but intriguing possibility of very substantial upside in the event the company followed through on their nascent but lofty ambition of becoming a substantial disruptive presence in India's consumer finance industry by leveraging off a broader ecosystem that includes hundreds of millions of Reliance's retail and telecoms customers. It has since become clearer that the scale of ambition is not what we hoped and with the shares now appearing more fairly priced, we have sold your holding.
Koh Young Technology	Shares surged recently as the company received FDA approval for its neurosurgical robot. This is clearly welcome news, and we have therefore decided to take profits as we are relatively sceptical about the size of this opportunity and more broadly the company's historic ability to generate attractive returns on R&D investment.
Li Ning	The secular growth opportunity for domestic sports and activewear in China is still attractive. However, our interactions with the management team and their financial performance have meant that we have declining confidence in the company's incentives to allocate capital, or ability to build an enduring brand that is not reliant on fashion trends.
Tata Motors	We have sold your investment in Tata Motors. The company's success in revitalising its Land Rover business, as well as a cyclical improvement in its domestic vehicle divisions have permitted both strong earnings growth and for the group to pay down its debt. As a result, the shares have performed very strongly since purchase, and we no longer believe we have a differentiated view relative to the market.

As well as cash in the bank, the cash balance includes unsettled cash flows arising from both shareholder flows and outstanding trades. Therefore, a negative balance may arise from timing differences between shareholder flows and security trading and does not necessarily represent a bank overdraft.

The specific risks associated with the Fund include:

Custody of assets, particularly in emerging markets, involves a risk of loss if a custodian becomes insolvent or breaches duties of care.

The Fund invests in emerging markets, which includes China, where difficulties with market volatility, political and economic instability including the risk of market shutdown, trading, liquidity, settlement, corporate governance, regulation, legislation and taxation could arise, resulting in a negative impact on the value of your investment. The Fund's investment in frontier markets may increase this risk.

The Fund's concentrated portfolio relative to similar funds may result in large movements in the share price in the short term.

The Fund has exposure to foreign currencies and changes in the rates of exchange will cause the value of any investment, and income from it, to fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount invested.

The Fund's share price can be volatile due to movements in the prices of the underlying holdings and the basis on which the Fund is priced.

Further details of the risks associated with investing in the Fund can be found in the Key Information Document (KID), or the Prospectus.
